HOLLYWOOD BUYS LIFE OF LOLA MONTEZ -- PRICE IS $100,000

The LOLA MONTEZ HOUSE Grass Valley

GRASS VALLEY: Philip van Doren Stern, writer of historical novels will visit Grass Valley in January to gather material for a contemplated story of this area. The novel will be a story of Grass Valley and the gold mines in 1854.

Two of the authors books are on the shelves of the Grass Valley library—"Midnight Reader" and "Drums of Morning". A third novel, "Lola" the life of Lola Montez, was recently sold to a Hollywood studio for $100,000. Lola Montez came to Grass Valley in 1852 where she built the only house she ever owned. The house is still standing.

Co-operating with van Doren Stern in gathering data of that area will be Elmer Stevens, President of the Nevada County Historical Society, Jane Whelan, Grass Valley librarian and Ray Kronemeyer, executive secretary of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that this proposed novel will also be filmed.

It is believed that the idea for the Montez novel was gathered from a publicity folder from the Chamber of Commerce which quite thoroughly covers the life of Lola. Amang the interesting paragraphs is this one: "Weary of men and sick of the world, Lola came to Grass Valley in 1852, seeking seclusion and peace. It was here she built her home, the only home she ever owned. It still stands today at the cornor of Mill and Walsh Street, a two story ivy-covered building with the famous old wine cellar in the back. In this cellar Lola kept her wines, imported frfom all over the world."

VFW AT BANQUET GIVES THANKS FOR SUCCESSFUL YEAR

NEVADA CITY: Over three hundred men and women veterans, and special guests attended the huge Thanksgiving banquet given by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Veterans Auxiliary of Nevada County at the IOOF Hall in Nevada City Saturday night.

As Commander Fred Garrison pointed out in his remarks to the large assemblage the purpose of the gathering was truly one of "Thanksgiving" for the first year of WW II vets in the VFW and the excellent progress of the organization in 1946. Garrison told of the mounting increase in membership while calling attention to the restrictions of VFW in membership in that the veterans must have served for a specified time in a field of combat oxerseas. Through the co-operation of City Councilman Al Bates and generous public contributions toward a memorial grove and plaque commemorating the deaths of Nevada City soldiers, sailors and marines in WW II was made possible in Pioneer Park. The Nevada County Board of Supervisors in recognizing the need of a veterans building in Nevada City included in the 1947 tax rate a small percentage to make such a building possible. The supervisors have met several times with the local VFW officers and committeemen in discussing the proposed building. During the year the local auxiliary and VFW have participated in many public events and have tried to work continually in the public interest.

During the evening a surprise "Certificate of Award" was made to three long time, hard working members of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Agnes Hoskins, Mrs. Margaret Tonella, and Mrs. Minnie Young. The nicely framed certificate testified to the three women's excellent work in conducting Poppy sales on Memorial Day. In 1946 they exceeded their quota by over 25%, one of the outstanding records throughout the nation.

Junior Vice Commander Bill Mullis, chairman of the first VFW Thanksgiving thanked all who helped him make this years party such an outstanding success and hoped that in 1947 the VFW would again have cause to celebrate another "year of achievement."

Give For Xmas Cheer

'Look for the Little Red Barrels and the Red Coin Collectors. When you buy your groceries buy an extra can of soup or a can of peas and drop in the barrel. That extra nickle or penny drop in the counter coin trees."

Such are the suggestions of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Nevada City who have graciously assumed the responsibliity of making this Christmas a little brighter for Nevada City's needy. A Christmas Dinner for everyone is their aim. "Help Us To Help Those Less Fortunate" is their slogan. You can help. You and You and You!

You can help in another way, too. If you know of some family whose Christmas won't be so bright because of financial reverses let the BPWC know so a check can be made and a Christmas dinner planned for them, if deserving.

If you phone in your grocery order tell your grocer to put a dozen oranges on the bill but to drop them in the little red barrels. Or canned beans, or jellies, or candies. If you want to make a check contribution mail it to Ruth Veale, or Mary Kohler at 231 Broad Street.

And when you and you and you sit down to your own table of plenty you can be happy within you because your contribution to the little red barrel, however small, is going to help somebody else have a feast this Christmas, too.

GALA CHRISTMAS PLANS NOW GETTING UNDERWAY

DONATION DAY, HUGE TREE, CHILDREN'S PARTY, BRIGHT DECORATIONS PLANNED BY GRASS VALLEY CHAMBER

GRASS VALLEY: Final plans for a gala Christmas celebration were completed at the Wednesday meeting of the Board of Directors of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Christmas festivities will officially start on December 13 when the first visit of Santa Claus will made in the business district. A huge community tree, donated by the United States Forest Service, will be erected between two service stations on Main street near Auburn street.

On December 20th the traditional Donation Day parade will be held when the school chidlen march and donate gifts to the needy. Ninety five-pound sacks of flour have been donated by a merchant to be carried by children who will not have gifts of their own to carry. Also on December 20th will be the huge children's Christmas party in the Del Oro theater with Santa Claus in appearance with a gift for every child and children's movies being shown. The theater facilities are furnished free with the Grass Valley merchants donating the items for the gift bags.

Decorated outdoor trees are being encouraged as well as home window Christmas displays. The Chamber is awarding a prize for the best tree or display and daily publicity will be given to each newly decorated tree that comes to the Chamber's attention.

The famous Grass Valley carol singers will sing their songs during the Christmas season. In past years before the war the singers performed underground at the Idaho Maryland Mines on a nation wide coast to coast broadcast. An effort is being made this year to again go on the air.

Other matters brought before the Chamber Directors was the proposition for a uniform county fire control ordinance and the reason for the delay in installing parking meters. The request for a county fire control ordinance originated with the United States Forest Service who have control over their own lands in the fire hazards caused by timber cutting but not on priate property.

The Chamber Directors authorized Executive Secretary Ray Kronemeyer to appear before the City Council in an effort to determine when parking meters will be installed.

ADVERTISING

Most people don't realize the news value of advertising. They have the idea that a publisher cajoles readers into reading the advtrising by placing news matter next to it, so that the reader, more or less stumbles on the ad by accident.

That isn't the way it happens at all. Most people scan the advertisements as avidly as they do the news. And some are more interested in the ads than they are in stories.

Reading ads is like window shopping. Almost everyone likes to window-shop. Sooner or later, they see something in the window that they can't resist and go in and buy it.

That's the way it is with advertising.

The New York daily, PM is an example to the point. PM was going to give its readers a break—not bother them with any advertising. PM had about every chance a newspaper could— it was backed by one of the richest angels in the country, Marshall Field. But no matter how hard it tried it didn't have enough reader-appeal.

A few weeks ago, the wealthy publisher realized what was evident all along. People like ads. PM, the adless paper, now carries advertising.

In the news columns, subscribers read the hard facts of what actually happens. In the advertising columns he reads, in somewhat extravagant terms, of beautiful, glittering things to own. The phraseology is different. It sparkles. It kids your along pleasantly. You know you're being kidded a little, but it's like a pleasant dream. You enjoy it. H. M. L. Jr.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder as she calls again,
With all the lure of fragrant flowers,
From fruitful vales and templed hills,
Through magic golden hours,
If the wide world will heed her call
And as the sounds of strife decease,,
Build here upon her wave washed shores
The Citadel of Peace.

California calls again and were her beloved poet laureate, John McGroarty living today, he would put all the romance and drama of her call into a poem as beautiful, appealing as one he wrote long, long ago.

It seems eminently fitting for the makers of peace to find a permanent home upon the shores of the Pacific. Here it was that the organization took form and in a spirit of cooperation and harmony which has since been often lacking. Here in California, that

"Lies not east nor west,
But like a scroll unfurled,
Where the hand of God hath placed it,
Down the middle of the world."

Here indeed looking out upon the greatest of all oceans, in an atmosphere of cosmopolitan culture and quickened understanding, might well be reared a temple of peace and good will which should increase in usefulness with every passing year.

Again our California calls; calls as she called to the earliest adventurers from the sunny land of Spain; calls again as she called to the pioneers of gold rush years. Calls as she will always call "'from peaks where the sunlight lingers long,
From vales in the purple dusk."

Yes, California calls again and yet again, and I can think of nothing more thrillingly delightful, fitting and dramatic, than to find the peace loving nations selecting her shores for the permanent home of the peace making organization which they are now so laboriously building.

"And so, from her heart's unwearied love,
Rings her voice with its olden thrill;
From the sea below and the skies above,
She is calling, calling still."

"Of old she called with her lips of song,
She called with her breath of musk,
From peaks where the sunlight lingers long,
From vales in the purple dusk;
She called to the seas with her tides of tang,
To the ships of the far off fleet,
And they came in the lure of the song she sang,
With their white sails, to her feet."

MAIN AT MILL

By BOB PAINE

Twin Cities will greet Mr. 1947 with more than it's usual bang. At least three big parties are planned. Every night club will have something special. The Elks, as they have for years, will entertain their members with dark to dawn parties. But the biggest shindig of all (gigantic, colossal and ten more Hollywood adjectives if you would listen to Commander Victor Taminetti) is the huge, monster, (there we go again) cabaret to be put on by the American Legion at the Veteran's Building. Reserved tables. Floor show every few hours. Blond honeys to bring the Scotch and. Following is the first picture taken early in '47. (A Nugget exclusive.)

Since Mrs. Lola Richmond is very much in the news we thought we would do a little checking on the proprietor of the picketed Valley Grill. From many a source comes the information that she's got a heart as big as the great outdoors. Like many a Nevada Countyan who operate their own private community chest without fanfare it can be set in type that Mrs. Richmond has used vanishing ink on many a charge on the white cuffs she wears. Countless meals have been served to Grass Valley's needy at reduced prices or entirely forgotten people whose small pensions just don't provide enough in these days of spiraling costs, have found a friend in Mrs. Richmond. We are going to name just one name and one instance of Lola's thoughtfulness. The seeing eye dog that guides Fred Sherman across Main at Mill was purchased by Mrs. Richmond at a cost of somewhere around $300. But when you ask Lola about these kindnesses she smiles but does not answer.

Looks like Grass Valley is going to have not one but two big new bowling alleys. The vast acreage that is the basement of the Memorial Building already has been blueprinted or alley use. Now we hear private capital is being deposited to finance alleys for those unable to use GV present fraternal alley and the Legion's proposed one. It's an ex-army officer who is the brains behind the deal.

A big national weekly has had their scout hereabouts counting the lumber trucks and pencilling statistics about Nevada County's biggest industry—the sawdust that replaced the gold dust payroll. A skilled writer is gathering the material and if the article on local lumbering is sold to the weekly will carry the story of the crashing fir and sugar pine to 20,000,000 readers.

Timber!

The Grass Valley Carol Choir has made a small request — its an easy one to comply with— so lets co-operate. They want Mill street roped off at Main and at Neal during the time of their traditional Christmas Eve carol singing on the steps of the Union. They give their time and talents to put on a good show. T'aint fair that they should compete with auto horns and the screeching brakes.

This week's bouquet goes to Dr. Daniel Hirsch for his suggestion that the Chamber of Commerce plant a living tree in some prominent spot and that tree be used as the community tree each Christmas growing bigger and more majectically each year. This week's brickbat to some nameless Nevada County writer for hot long ago in submitting a brief to the Hollywood moguls on the life and times of Montez — elsewhere you have read where the price paid for the movie rights alone for the novel Lola were $100,000. Let's keep those hundred thousand dollars at home!

BOY SCOUT NEWS

SCOUT PROGRAM WILL BE JEOPARDIZED IF FUNDS NOT RAISED

As plans still go forward for ultimate attainment of the Tahoe Area Council, Boy Sout Budget it was observed today by G. E. Kraetz, General Appeal Chairman and Local Campaign heads, that unless the funds were raised Scouting in the Tahoe Area Council would "stand still' as far as present and prospective programs were concerned. It was announced that the present field service to registered Cub, Scout and Senior Scout leadership would be maintained but that as far as enrichment in all Cubbing, Scouting and Senior Scouting programs was concerned it would remain about the same. With the influx of people and boys through out the Area and with a definite need for more Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Senior Units, it was felt that in communities where the appeal had not been completed, it would be well within the realm of achievement. It was further stated that those communities in the Area that have reached a successful conclusion have done so with a definite objective in view for additional and more concentrated field service to volunteer leaders within their community. One council —One Budget is the program of the Tahoe Area Council, Boy Scouts of America and it was felt that all communities that had not completed the appeals would bend every effort to do so within the next few weeks.

DAY-DREAMING, THE POOR MAN'S OPIUM

Ever in search of a more trivial and less important topic or our column, today we discuss 'Day-dreaming, The Poor Man's Opium'" This mental candy can be got by anyone, old or young, rich or poor. It can be indulged in any hour of the waking day. It doesn't cost a cent.

Before we plot the beauties of day-dreaming, let us set up a couple of warning signposts. There are extremes—too much and too little. Too much day-deaming puts you in the bughouse. You get so expert, your dreams become so beautiful that real life looks ugly and frightens you. Too little day-dreaming turns your mind into an adding machine. You get a tense expression on your face and start making notes of unimportant details. The practical, material world seems like the only one and thereby assumes undue importance.

Day-dreaming and pleasant memories are all mixed up together. You can't day-dream if you haven't got anything to start with. But once you get the knack, you just turn on a switch in your head and you're off to the races—elephant races if you prefer. And your elephant always wins, too.

When boring people try to steal valuable minutes, press the brain button and take a trip to England or Italy or even Southern California. Nothing strikes such a blow at a bore as seeing, upon his victim's face, the blissfully unconcerned expression of the day-dreamer. You can be drinking wine on the Via Roma in Naples while he is telling what a smart fellow he is, just having outfoxed Jones in some deal too petty for belief.

Like grog, day-dreaming can reduce your efficiency—but booze not only wraps your brain in cotton, it melts your pocketbook. Let us say that day-dreaming comes closer to giving you something for nothing. . ..

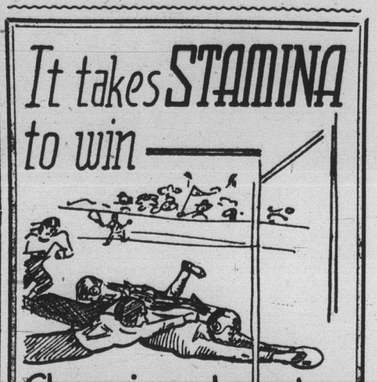

There are so many things you can do automatically and still indulge in mental fantasy—driving a car, walking, just sitting, running a typewriter—but of course one must be very careful to concentrate while doing serious work, running a typewriter, running a — the sun had just come up over the mainland, and we gave the helmsman the order to come around ninety degrees to starboard, heading into the Straits for the Port of Messina. A green velvet projection of the shore was labled Scylla on the chart and sure enough where it said Charybdis was a whirling eddy caused by the tide running both ways between Sicily and the Italian coast. There was a strange bright breeze that left the blue water clear and slick, and sent a Sicilian fish boat skimming the surface as if flying with its great red sail . . .

RANGER THANKS ALLEGHANY, FOREST FOR CO-OPERATION

CAMPTONVILLE: James D. Rittenhouse district ranger expresses his appreciation as follows:

The Camptonville district of the Tahoe National Forest wishes to extend to the people of Alleghany and Forest a hearty appreciation of the cooperative spirit which these communities have shown in the suppression of fires this past season.

Two fires namely the Ketsenbaugh and the Yellowjacket Mine, were kept to a small acreage by the prompt action taken by the Alleghany and Forest people.

I hope that if any of the people of the Camptonville district feel that they have a particular fire problem they will be glad to make an inspection and offer suggestions for its abatement.

Once again I wish to offer my thanks to the local people, particularly the women who did a splendid back of the lines job in making two lunches and serving coffee to weary fire fighters.

THIEVES STEAL LOAD OF CHRISTMAS TREES IN STORM

DOWNIEVILLE: Thieves worked in a heavy rain storm Friday night of last week and mad eoff with between 300 and 400 Christmas trees belonging to Louis E. Schnoor in Indian Valley. Schnoor had cut the trees and was preparing to load them for the bay area market. A neighbor heard the big van and thought Schnoor had decided to take the trees but neglecting to investigate.

Schnoor thinks someone familiar with the situation is implicated; his automobile was nearby, covered with a tarpaulin; it was his habit to leave the ignition key in the car; the thief removed the key, probably to delay possible pursuit, whereas it is believed someone unfamiliar with his habit would have wrecked ignition wiring.

A GOOD LETTER ON THE VALLEY GRILL DISPUTE

To the Editor
The Nugget
Nevada City

If one were asked what is the dominant characteristic of the average American, one answer that would meet the approval of a large majority of people would be "a spirit of fairness". In sports, in business, in religion, even politics, Americans admire fair play. When the opposite occurs and they are convinced that someone is interfering with fair play, there is likely to be a revlusion of feeling that bodes no good for the man who doesn't play fair.

In the case of the Valley Grill it would appear that this American spirit of fair play has been grossly violated. By means of signs and pickets it declares that the lone woman who is trying to make a living is unfair to organized labor, which has not been prover. These signs and pickets are doing the business a very great damage. The objective of the union organizer has not been stated. Ostensibly it is to compel the employes to join the union so that the fees and dues may increase the income of the organizer and the union. The fundamental object of a well-conducted labor organization is try to improve the living standards of the members. That is accepted as a laudable ambition, and the American public has no fault to find with it. It is questionable whether the leaders of the AFL in California would approve if they knew the facts.

But when a man from another town drops in, picks out what looks like a weak spot, operated by a lone woman where the employes are not members of the union, have expressed no desire to join, or to ask assistance, and tries to put the owner out of business it would seem that someone is not only lacking in the American spirit of fair play, but is injecting himself into a situation where he can be considered nothing else but a nuisance. If the employes want to join the union to have grievances corrected(which they do not) then the organizer might have some excuse for injecting himself into the situation. At present he is very unpopular with all classes of citizens, including members of the unions. It recalls the story of a man who prospered mgihtily because he attended to his own business.

GRASS VALLEY: A capacity crowd of music lovers thronged the Veterans Memorial building Thursday night to hear John Sebastian, mouth-harp virtuoso, play a delightful group of classical pieces. The wavy-haired musician had intriguing personality and kept his audience with him every minute of the full program.

NEVADA CITY LONG AGO

FLOY MARGARET REYNOLDS

NEVADA CITL 75 YEARS AGO

Emerson's renowned troupe was performing at the Nevada Teatre in "Night in Paris" a story of a food shortage. The hero buys a newspaper that he may chew the advertisements of an eating house in order to appease his hunger. There were many sore sides in town from good hearty laughter.

Aaron Sargent denied the story running in the papers that he had sold his mining claims. On the contrary the company was making extensivve preparations for their winter work.

The Episcopal Sociable was held at the residence of Ed Williams, Esq. with Mrs. Churchman acting as hostess.

The school in the Oakland District Gold Flat, under the charge of Miss O. E. Miller was in a very flourishing condition. The average daily attendance was about eighty and the school house crowded.

Announcement was made of a Grand Masquerade and Fancy Dress Ball to be held at the skating Rink. There as to be skating in masks and costumes from eight until ten o'clock and dancing from ten until two in the morning. No one was to be admitted without a mask and no one was to be allowed to unmask before ten o'clock. The committee of arrangements included Wm. F. Evens, J. E. Brown, W. W. Cross, A. R. Wadsworth, A. R. Lord and A. W. Lester. Dinner was to be served to those who devised it by Antoine Tam, Alex Gault and J. H. Hamilton.

Following was the roll of honor in the First Primary School for the month of November. Miss Emma M. Smith, teaher: Emma Ott, Josie Horrman, Maggie Coughlan, Jennie Adair, Lizzie Hutchison, Orrin Smith, Charles Munro, Amelia Hook, Susie Bulet, Wren Cannon, Allie Smith, Willie Long, Mattie Gregory, Bell Latta, Hattie Lane, Lizzie Hughes, Bell Milhorn, Harry Lawrence, John Nivens, Matilda Reynolds and Nora McArthur.

NEVADA CITY 50 YEARS AGO

K. Kasper, long a resident of this city, was planning to remove to Vallejo, and was advertising for sale at a bargain his house and lot on Main Street.

After a meeting of the Curly Bears had adjourned the members formed in line and headed by Goyne's band, marched to the residence of F. T. Nilon on upper Nevada Street to serenade Mr. Nilon and offer congratulations upon his election to the office of superior judge. Mr. Nilon made a few remarks from his front porch and then the whole company numbering more than 200 was invited into the house to partake of some good cheer that had been hastily prepared. Goyne's band rendered several fine selections and a glee club consisting of George Barton, Louis Brinkman, Frank Barton, Henry Brown and others sang a number of songs.

Mrs. William Stevens and her daughter, Allie were visiting at the home of Mrs. Osborne in Coyote Street.

News was received of the marriage in New York of Miss Helen Dedzie More and George C, Sargent son of the late Senator A. A. Sargent. The bride had been private secretary to Senator Hearst's widow. The groom was born in Nevada City and was very well known here. He still had interests in the mining property at Quaker Hill left by his father and came here often to look after those interests.

The saw mill of M. L. and D. Marsh at Willow Valley had closed down for the season. During the season ended over 1,000,000 feet of lumber was sawed out, being one of the largest runs ever made by the firm.

The Royal Whist club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Carter at the New York Hotel. First prizes of the evening went to F. T. Nilon and Mrs. C. J. Naffziger, second prizes to C. J. Brand and Mrs. Geo. F. Jacobs and the booby prize went to C. J. Naffziger and Mrs. James Cairns.

CHARM OF GRASS VALLEY TOLD IN CHAMBER'S NEW BOOKLET

Editor's Note: The Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce now has ready for distribution an excellent brochure, for the information of tourists seeking information of this area. A map of the city of Grass Valley is shown and well as a map showing its relation to other towns within easy driving distance. One whole column is devoted to the principal industries and another column to travel and recreation. The Chamber Directors recently voted Ray Kronemeyer a vote of commendation for his excellent work in preparing the pamphlet. So that you will know what outsiders read about us the Nugget herewith publishes an excerpt from the advertising folder:

GOLDEN GATEWAY TO NEVADA AND SIERRA COUNTIES WONDERLAND

In the foothills of the Sierra Nevadas just enough off the transcontinental highways so that the charm and quaintness of the days of '49 remains unspoiled, lies the town of Grass Valley. Here the modern way of life born of a thriving community blends with the traditions and customs of the gold rush days.

The Grass Valleyans of this area are proud of their interior city, rich with the romance of earlier days and so significantly linked with the progress of today. Modern homes, stores and other buildings are much in evidence intermingled with the old historical buildings of the '49er days. The old Catholic cemetery, overgrown with wyrtle and other shrubs and dating back to the early history of Grass Valley, quietly lies at the end of a street of modern homes. And across frof it is St. Patrick's Church dating back to 1858 and Mt. St. Mary's Academy. Such evidence of the mingling of the old and the new can be found in every part of the town.

As evidence of its growth with the times however, many modern public buildings have made thier appearance such as the Veterans Memorial building which is large enough for dances, dinners, assembly meetings and civic concerts. The Grass Valley library, situated on the site of the birthplace of Josiah Royce renowned Harvard teacher and eminent philosopher, has a large modern collection of books as well as valuable historical records.

Eleven church denominations are represented here as well as the leading fraternal orders. The Rotary and Lions Clubs, Business and Pforessional Women. Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries and a great number of other clubs have very active organizations. For the younf people scout troops for all ages hold been interest. Grass Valley's school system is modern with up to date playground and equipment. The high school is accreditted and is modern in every respect.

There are numerous recrational spots in and about Grass Valley. Memorial Park, operated by the city has an auto camp, swimming pool, tennis court, lighted ball park where soft ball games are in progress nightly during the summer and a supervised playground. Night football is played at Hennessey Field. A 9 hile sporty course is open to the public under the sponsorship of the Nevada County Colf Association, and is located only a short distance from Grass Valley on the Nevada City highway. Riding stables provide horses for those who wish to try the many trails.

Beautiful miniature Lake Olympia snugly nestled in the shadows of the majestic pines, is available for canoeing, boating swimming and picnicking. Cabins are available for the vacationist upon reservation. A dance pavilion is located over the water for the younger set and roller skating is provided here during the winter season.

Our airport laid out in 1907 as the first commercial field in the west operates in a modern manner, providing taxi service and sight seeing trips as well as providing flying fishermen with a means of getting to choice fishing streams.

Grass Valley is located on highway 20 which runs from Lake Tahoe through Nevada City and Grass Valley to Marysville to Fort Bragg on the Pacific, on highway No. 49, from Sacramento through Auburn to Grass Valley and Nevada City, Diwnieville, Sierra City and Yuba Pass, joining No. 89, and on highway No. 15, Grass Valley to Colfax, joining No. 40 at Colfax.

Napoleon Bonaparte Bishop Funeral Friday

NEVADA CITY: Funeral services were held last Friday in Holmes Funeral Home for Napoleon Bonaparte Bishop, a resident of French Corral, who died in a local hospital Tuesday morning. The services were in charge of Rev. Virgil Gabrielli. Interment was in the North San Juan Cemetery.

Bishop had lived at French Corral for many years. He followed mining and had a wide acquaintance and many friends on San Juan Ridge where he had worked and lived for 50 years. He was 78 years of age.

Surviving are a son, Clyde Bishop of Brownsville, Yuba Couuty, a grandson Lester Bishop and sisters, Mrs. Josie Burkholder of North San Juan and Mrs. Nettie Kneebone of Wheatland, Yuba County.

Our favorite duck carried his umbrella last week just out of habit. Wasn't necessary. Not a drop of California's liquid sunshine fell. Our three bridges found themselves wrapped in cake-like frosting every morning and the workers from Piety Hill bundled themselves a little warmer as they hurried across the Pine Street bridge of white. But the score remains the same—rainfall to date 11.68 inches—37.29 inches to go to equal last season's total.

GREATHOUSES MAY GO TO THE BIG HOUSE

AUBURN: George Greathouse 29, and his wife Mille Greathouse 23, both of San Francisco are in the Placer County jail facing charges of burglarizing a number of homes at Lake Tahoe.

The pair were arrested in San Francisco last week when it was discovered a large number of articles taken from the Tahoe homes were stored in a small hotel, operated by the couple.

Sheriff E. J. Kenison estimated the total amount of stolen loot to amount to approximately $100,000.

The pair have not admitted the thefts. District Attorney C. E. Tindall said. Greathouse maintained that he bought the stolen articles.

The suspects are held under $10,000 bail each on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace P. N. Smith of Auburn and signed by Constable Harry Johnson of Tahoe.

Sheriff Kenison said he expected several more persons would be involved in the robberies before investigations were completed.

Constable Johanson was credited with finding a clue which led to the arrest of the suspects. He discovered a scrap of paper with three unidentified telephone listings on it in the burglarized home of Everett Mills at Tahoe Pines.

He sent the numbers, together with a detailed description of stolen articles to Chief of Police Charles Dullea in San Francisco.

One of the numbers turned out to be that of a Post Street automobile rental agency. Inspectors Ray Hunt and David Brady checked and discovered an automobile was rented to the Greathouses on October 21.

The speedometer showed the car had been driven 497 miles approximately the round trip distance from San Franisco to Tahoe and the machine had returned the following day.

The officers visited the hotel operated by the Greathouses at 481 Minna Street and found a large number of items tallying with Johanson's description.

A further check uncovered other articles in a garage. Authorities said the loot comprised outboard motors, radios, clothing, bedding, fur coats, vacuum cleaners and household furniture.
